

My hope for Religious Life into the future...(Jane Maisey)

Creation constantly evolves, therefore religious life is evolving too. Stereotypes and discourses abound, often restricting revealing creations' grandeur. I hope we can have the courage to say 'yes' to our callings, to embrace living religious life in new evolving ways, blowing away stereotype cobwebs. Embracing loving creation in beauty, goodness, and truth. Imagining, discerning, living—as new wine in new relational trinitarian wineskins. AMDG.
