

My hope for Religious Life in this moment of history is that it will have the possibility to shine out to a world that needs it. I hope that through the powerful witness of religious sisters, brothers and priests that the world will see how rewarding it is to give one's life to God. I hope that young people will see the benefit and richness of following this vocation and will continue to offer themselves in service to God's church and to our whole world.

By Fr Joshua Nash OMI